MOST'S DEFENSE.

The lawyers for the defense declared this was their last word. For the first time in the hearing had taken the stand. The lawyers for the prosecution, however, could not count on the acquittal of the indictment be taken from the consideration of jury, and the Court granted the defense a recess of two days to prepare a rebuttal on the ground that there was no proof that either of the defendants made any statement or was guilty of any crime. This was denied. Lawyer Howe said that he had demanded a recess of two days to prepare a rebuttal, a right to which he was entitled. The Recorder replied that the Court must be a little to this. The lawyer said that he had no objection to that. Most then said: I cannot speak very well in English. You have heard a great deal about the trial of the case. I have heard a great deal of the trial of witnesses for the prosecution and a great deal of black devil lies about me, but what I want to say is that I am innocent. I am innocent in Austria going against me and didn't advise that the men should get guns. I said if they carried guns instead of knives, it would be more expected; I didn't tell them they should shoot; said the constitution as they carry arms, certainly they could carry cannons and bombs but I didn't advise women to throw fireworks in houses, or let anybody throw vitrol out of windows. Beecher-son know him, Most went on 'till Sunday to buy rifles and guns to protect themselves. That is all the advice I gave. That meeting has greatly increased the unlawful assemblage. You know what they are doing? They are not only putting me in prison, but they are taking away my free speech. The next step will be to stop the freedom of the press. Then will be to take away the right of the people's address. This case will be given to the jury late this afternoon.

THE ANARCHISTS.

The case of the anarchists, F. H. Bergmann, Gottlieb Jabolowitch, Martin Frank and Otto Fricke, charged with unlawful assembly, came up in the Court of Criminal Correction to-day, but the defendants, who were represented by James J. McElride, asked for a jury, and the case was continued until June 23, at 2 p. m. The Police Jury also heard the case, the main endeavor to collect evidence enough to secure a conviction.

Alexander J. Leaded guilty to stealing an overcoat from Jack Forsberg, and Judge Noonan made him go to the Work-house for sixty days.

Anna Arts, charged by Kate McCormack with assault, forfeited her bond.

The case against Frank Koenig, charged with assault on John O'Brien, charged with assault and battery, were dismissed for want of prosecution.

John O'Brien, charged with the Work-house for six months for stealing $11 worth of window glass from Glenn Brothers.

MOST'S DEFENSE.
The lawyers for the defense declared this ended their case. Surprise was expressed that neither Most nor any one else in his behalf had been called to the stand. The defense moved that the second count of the indictments be taken from the consideration of jury, and the Court granted the request. The Recorder then read and acquitted on the ground that there was

LABOR—STRIKE.
CLEVELAND, O., May 28.—To-day's meeting of the General Assembly of Knights of Labor promises to be a very interesting one. Several of the committees will report, it is thought, and the further consideration of the existing troubles between the Knights and Unionists will be one of the important features on the no proof that either of the defendants made any threat against any person tending to show much of the evidence was denied. Lawyer Howe said Most desired to address the jury in his own behalf, a right to which he was entitled. The Recorder replied that Most had that privilege, but there must be a limit to it. The lawyer said Most would occupy about an hour.

A SUCCESSFUL PERFORMANCE.

The Augustin Daly Company at the Strand Theater, London.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, May 28.—The opening performance of Augustin Daly's company in "A Night of Fun" at the Strand Theater last night was by far the most successful premier of this season.

From the beginning to the end of the play there was literally not an entire minute when the audience did not roar with laughter. All points, even when of a distinctly American character, were taken instantly. The theater, in fact, was filled with a hair-trigger audience, exploding at the slightest touch. The opinion expressed by those who had seen Augustin Daly's company frequently was that they never acted better. Socially, too, they scored a success, the audience being a desirable one.

In one box sat the American Minister, Mr. E. J. Phelps, Lady Randolph Churchill, John T. Hoffman, ex-Gov. of New York, and Henry White, First Secretary of the American Legation. In the opposite box sat Mrs. John W. Mackay and her party. Mr. Bouchere was seated in the middle of the stalls. Brandon Matthews and wife, who came to London from Paris, too late to get better seats, were in the center of the balcony. Among others were noticed Hamilton Roby, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Barriere, who was Miss George Drew, Frederick Gebhardt, and Mrs. Christine Nilsson. The company was called before the curtain after each act repeatedly. At the end of the play Augustin Daly made a short speech in response to calls. He said: "Your welcome sounds like an echo of the applause with which you have so far greeted us. We have told you to come again, and we have come."

"Glad to see you," shouted a voice in the gallery, raising a general laugh. "I thank you on behalf of Miss Rehan, Mrs. Gilbert, Mr. Lewis, Mr. Drew and the rest of the company for the affectionate reception you have to-night extended to all. I am very sorry that my friend, Mr. Forrie, is not here to receive his share of the welcome, but I fear (looking at his watch) that he is still struggling at the Adelphi to reach his harbor lights, while we have already found ours here in the bright light of your friendly eyes."

Mr. Daly privately expressed great pleasure at the warm reception his company had met with. He said that they had been too busy preparing for last night to do or say anything, but that he was in a body to see the Derby. The success of their season is established beyond doubt.

ALL A MISTAKE.

The True Story of a Recent Rumpus at the Southern Hotel.

In the Post-Dispatch of Wednesday a news item appeared in which the trouble created by one John W. Ham, who had been head clerk at the Southern Hotel, was set forth in a manner that unjustly reflected upon Mr. H. C. Lewis, manager of the hotel. It was made to appear that Ham, who was drunk, had assaulted Mr. Lewis when he did so such thing. The facts as related by persons who were present are these: Ham made some disturbance in the hotel while he was under the influence of liquor and Mr. Lewis ordered him from the premises. Later he returned and demanded pay for himself and all steps, he could ever regain the Democratic confidence which he has lost. This fellow up here in Albany will tell the life out of him.

A Woman Fines a Constable—Two Assaults—News Notes from Over the Bridge.

A good story on Constable Ryan, who was elected at the recent municipal election, has leaked out. Yesterday morning Mrs. Elizabeth O'Connell of the Second Ward swore out a warrant for the arrest of Kate Young, charged her with using obscene and threatening language. "Squire Shea, before whom the warrant was taken out, gave it to Constable Ryan to serve. Ryan went to Mrs. Young's residence, rang the bell, and Mrs. Young herself answered the summons. She at once recognized Ryan, but he not knowing her, asked if he could see Mrs. Young. She told him that Mrs. Young had gone over to St. Louis and asked him his business. He told her that he had a warrant for her, and when she had obtained the further information from him that the warrant had been sworn out by Mrs. O'Connell, she told him that Mrs. Young had left word with her nearest sworn out by Mrs. O'Connell should call at her residence on the island and find the "Squire's Court" in the morning, plead guilty, and pay whatever fine was imposed and come. This was satisfactory to Ryan and he left. Shortly afterwards Mrs. Young packed up her clothes, secured a furniture car, and before evening had all her household effects moved to St. Louis. Ryan heard of the removal and he went to her house, but of course Mrs. Young was not there and when informed by the neighbors of the deception practiced on him, he was crestfallen.

Last evening Connelly and James Murphy, who were on their way to the street of his son, Ellsworth Parker, on a charge of assault. The father attempted to correct the boy for being wrong in the street, and the lad, who is a man in physical proportions, managed to get in more blows on his father's head than he did on him.

The standing of the discharged jury in the case of the Belleville in the Post-Dispatch last evening was a surprise to the citizens. A verdict of acquittal would, it was generally thought, be returned, and no one had the least idea that the jury would come so near convicting the brothers as they did. As the jury disagreed the case will again come to trial at the next term of court.
